Dr. David Price, Pulmonary Specialist and ICU Physician, Weill Cornell Medical Center, New York, March 22, 2020

Last Friday, respected HR legal advisor, and VANTREO friend, Don Phin Esq., sent us this video link, Empowering and protecting your family during the COVID-19 pandemic. [1]

His forwarding message read, “I’ve been following the law and recommendations non-stop. This is the best thing I’ve heard on understanding how to stay safe. Long but very worth it. Be well.”

Based on Don’s recommendation, the adults in our family watched it. As the video concluded, we began forwarding the link, as if we were on auto-pilot, to other family members, to friends, and to co-workers.

That’s when I decided to send it to you.

The speaker is Dr. David Price, pulmonary specialist and ICU doctor, with Weill Cornell Medical Center in New York. His voice is upbeat when he explains that while he has been caring for New York’s sickest COVID-19 patients over the last three months, he is confident that he will not be infected with the virus. It is for this reason that he felt compelled to explain how he is staying safe.

Dr. Price is delivering his message on a Zoom call to a large group of co-workers, family and friends. Nothing fancy about watching a doctor talk, but the information he delivers is truly empowering.

The gist of the message is delivered in the first 30 minutes. He answers questions after that.

The more people armed with the action plan to beat this virus, the sooner we’ll move past the quarantines.

As always, VANTREO is here to help. We deliver COVID-19 Headlines, Key Resources, Helpful Strategies and as much Good News as we can find right here.
